Impax Asset Management excited by surge in demand for sustainable energy

Impax Asset Management Group PLC's (LON:IPX) Ian Simm talks to Proactive London about their investments into a more sustainable economy.

Simm explains the reasons behind their strong performance, with AUM rising by 24.8% during the final three months of 2020 to £25.2bn.

Simm adds how sectors such as wind turbines, batteries for electric vehicles and smart recycling technology are facilitating the supply of products and services that solve global problems.

He goes on to note that a Biden presidency could mark a turning point in US government policy and usher in a new era for clean energy after the Trump administration.
